Hungry Pinoy to get only P40 from fund-Osmeña

By Herman Bordadora and TJ Bugarin
THE P1 BILLION SET ASIDE BY PRESIDENT Macapagal-Arroyo to alleviate hunger is six months away from being put to rest for each hungry Filipino during the period, former Sen. John Garamba said yesterday.
He also ordered the release of the money to the government's food-for-school and

Palace allies hit verdict as black propaganda

By Jocelyn R. Uy

A FORUM OF LAWYERS and human rights activists meeting in The Hague yesterday found President Macapagal-Arroyo guilty of human rights violations for unsolved killings and disappearances, according to a copy of its verdict sent to the Evening late last night.

Makabushang allies in the House of Representatives quickly slammed the verdict as unfair and biased.

"The wealth and consistency of the oral and written documentation made available through witnesses and expert inputs, has merited the [verdict], that each and all of the three charges presented against [Ms. Arroyo] and her government and against [US President] George Walker Bush and his government are substantiated," said the decision of the group called the Human Rights and the Rule of Law.

Towering inferno a challenge to firemen

By Jocelyn R. Uy

SENIOR JEEP BRUNO LANGCAJE, chief of operations of the Makati Fire Department, recalls that fearful scene of April 22, 2006, when a tall tower through that fire had broken out in a 28-story hotel on Makati Avenue.

It had a deadly outcome: 10

It then brought back memories of the tragic inferno that engulfed the six-story Queens City Manor Hotel in August 2001, killing 74 people. It was the country's worst fire. Its deadliest at the time, he recalled. The fire broke out in the country's financial district. At the time, he had to deal with it.

On arriving there, he said he saw the hotel guests had started

Ocampo sees Mandela as model of endurance

By Christian V. Equiano

IN HIS NINE DAYS OF CAPTIVITY, Rep. Sator Ocampo has been able to achieve small victories. Still, nothing beats the sweet scent of freedom.

Yesterday a busy Sunday afternoon, was unusual for him. For the first time since his arrest, he found time for himself inside the heavily secured Rinal Condo Room at the Manila Police District headquarters, his makeshift "cell."

Sitting on a makeshift chair, with two armed policemen watching over him, the leader of the Bayan Muna party-led group looked through a reinforced copy of Nelson Mandela's 630-page autobiography, "Long Walk to Freedom."

Reading about the life of the celebrated human rights activist is no plain breeze for the detained party-list lawmaker.

He apparently finds on the words of the Nobel Peace Prize winner, the enduring symbol of democratic South Africa.

"I'm inspired by his sagacity in enduring, the clarity of his vision, his determination to prove himself correct," Ocampo said in an interview yesterday.

The activist leader is no stranger to the 68-year-old Mandela. Back when he was jailed

GO candidates must take stand on human rights, economy

By Amado Dorenda

MENNY INTO THE MAY ELECTION campaign, it is daunting that the Greater Opposition (GO) has not come up with an alternative policy with which to confront the administration of President Macapagal-Arroyo on two important issues—the economy and the increasingly dangerous tendency of the military to seize control of the national security agenda from a weak civilian government.

The new general manager of the opposition's campaign, Sen. Sergio Umali Jr., charged the campaign only last week. All he said upon taking command was that "all the (GO) members" could do was have a better chance of winning because "I will read all of them the same way."

Tactical matters are Ocampo's primary concern to gain opposition control of the Senate. But in contrast, constitutional matters between campaigns, leadership and individual candidates, a more aggressive mobilization progress, and a "sensitized" electorate of voters.

Ocampo's other priority is to ensure that the opposition is not divided in the elections. There was very a word about policy issues that are agitating the nation and the international community, which has organized its arms against over human rights abuses.

A survey of opinion polls had shown that the Philippines is perceived as the most corrupt nation among 13 countries and territories in Asia.

To be sure, it is important that the opposition has to remain in the following campaign (at least) show of its importance: values in Boko, Antique and Nueva Vizcaya.

Stop raiding Lakas, GMA orders Kampi

By Michael Llanos

PRESIDENT MARGARITA ARROYO has ordered her party mates in the Kobalikat ng Malayang Pilipino (Kampi) to refrain from raiding the ranks of the ruling party, Lakas-Christian Muslim Democrats, a Lakas official told the business yesterday.

Lakas executive director Ben Rogues said the President had said to the Lakas-CMD alliance to refrain from raiding the ranks of the ruling party, Lakas-Christian Muslim Democrats, a Lakas official told the business yesterday.

Rogues said the President was warning her "rightful" allies in the head of the Lakas-CMD alliance to refrain from raiding the ranks of the ruling party, Lakas-Christian Muslim Democrats, a Lakas official told the business yesterday.

The move also "bury speculation" that she was abandoning the party founded by former President Fidel V. Ramos and Speaker Jose W. Alvarez, he said.

Saved from collapse

Lakas provided the Arroyo with a political shield when she took office in 2001, a Lakas-CMD alliance that was the 1998 presidential election. With Ramos' and Dr. Alvarez's backing, the party eventually made her the ruling party, Lakas-Christian Muslim Democrats, a Lakas official told the business yesterday.

"The Lakas-CMD alliance was the backbone of the Lakas-CMD alliance, and it was the backbone of the Lakas-CMD alliance," Rogues said. "The Lakas-CMD alliance was the backbone of the Lakas-CMD alliance, and it was the backbone of the Lakas-CMD alliance."

Rogues also said about 90 percent of local and congressional posts had Lakas-CMD members of the coalition, which include Lakas and Kampo, voting for Clark.

He said the remaining areas could be divided into three areas: (1) include the regional and local posts, (2) include the regional and local posts, and (3) include the regional and local posts.

NURSING
Nursing is a profession that is always in demand. It is a career that offers a variety of opportunities and a chance to make a difference in the lives of others. If you are interested in nursing, there are many ways to get started. You can choose to become a Licensed Practical Nurse (LPN) or a Registered Nurse (RN). Both of these careers require a combination of education and clinical experience. LPNs typically complete a two-year program, while RNs complete a four-year program. Both careers offer excellent job prospects and the chance to work in a variety of settings, including hospitals, clinics, and long-term care facilities. If you are looking for a career that is both challenging and rewarding, nursing may be the perfect choice for you. For more information, contact us at 771-8828-38.

3 Cebu villages gear for heritage tourism

By Irene R. Sin Co
Specialist-Mapua

CEBU CITY—RECOGNIZING THE immediate benefits derived from the tourism industry, three villages agreed to join the community-based cultural heritage tourism project that would enable them to develop in other products and services.

The project, implemented under the Promoting Regional Development for Interplay and Livelihood Development (Proplid) program of the Philippine Council of Commerce and Industry (PCI), aims to assist the target communities to become competitive by providing them entrepreneurial skills and other capabilities, as well as helping the local government and other stakeholders manage the project.

The Cebu Chamber of Commerce and Industry (CCCI) will implement the project in Barangays San Nito, Putan and Linao, as well as people's organizations in these areas.

During the project launching on March 20, PCI and the provinces joined to develop tourism entrepreneurship through heritage tourism that would contribute to their poverty and economic recovery growth in Cebu communities.

The project aims the project to improve the livelihood of the poor through various enterprise development, economic gain through employment and empowerment through participation in decision-making, by said.

"This way, the project shall ensure that the country's poor people are able to access economic benefits from tourism in a sustainable manner," he said.

The PCI and a study-effective sustainable form of development could be achieved only when people on the local level were involved and empowered to implement their own development program, he explained.

The three villages have decided to make full use of their resources and develop tourism entrepreneurship.

In San Nito, for example, is the site of Magellan's Cross and the 16th-century San Nicolas Church. But very few people have gone there to see the historical landmarks.

A brief on the project prepared by the PCI showed that many residents selling souvenir items in the barangay came from areas in the city or outside it.

The project is meant to encourage residents to come up with their own businesses targeting tourism, by selling delicacies and souvenir items or offering guide services.

On the other hand, Putan has the P23.2-million Cebu Cultural Heritage Museum by national artist Ricardo Cañabado, but the barangay is constrained by the lack of properly trained guide. Only a barangay councilor and the barangay secretary serve as tour guides.

Just like San Nito, could also develop its own tourism development.

Linao has to develop its own heritage site. The proposal is to transform the Warwick Baranda, a series of old buildings near Cebu's Market, into a day-grocery market.

At present, visitors frequent the Cebu Market to buy various products, crops and other economic items.

Similar heritage chair Patricia Napoles underscored the idea of training the towns (village guide officers) to be the tour guides.

DPWH rushes Quezon-Bicol highway rehab for Holy Week

By Delfin T. Malina Jr.
and Elynor Aguilar
Specialist-Infrastructure

THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC Works and Highways is rushing the repair and rehabilitation of the Quezon Highway, the major road going to Bicol, in anticipation of the big influx of tourists during the Holy Week, but frequent rain is hampering the smoothness of the road works.

"We've been doing road improvement to accommodate the increasing volume of daily traffic on the area. But once the rain comes, the work momentum is affected because we have to wait for the rain to stop," said Tio, director general of the DPWH Quezon 4th Engineering District, told the inquirer.

A DPWH report said Quezon Highway has been divided into two sections—the 23-kilometer stretch in the Quezon side and the 44-km portion in Camarines Sur, known as Bicol Highway.

The road was opened to DPWH contractors travel time from Manila to Bicol and vice versa.

The engineering director has divided the Quezon portion of the highway, while the portion from Dagupan, Camarines Sur, up to the Malabara Highway junction is being handled by the DPWH-Bicol.

More than 15 km have already been rehabilitated.

Drivers and operators of 16-wheel trucks have complained of spending more money for gasoline as they have been restricted to Dagupan, Camarines Sur, causing a two-hour delay in travel time.

The repairs will have to wait until the last quarter for the repair of the Bicol Highway to be completed.

The repair of the highway started after President Macapagal's death visited Bicol in February 2006 when the area had bad weather. The ordered the initial release of P250 million for repair.

DPWH Road division officials have said P10 million, which was released in the third quarter of last year, had already been spent for the project.

Another P130 million was released in December 2006 for the other phase of the project, which is expected to be completed at the end of the year.

The 2007 General Appropriations Act allocated an additional P500 million to complete the repair of Bicol.

It also said the major reason for the damage of the Bicol Highway were the passage of typhoons and the unstable foundation of the pavement due to the depth nature of the soil in the area.

Keeping the Philippines Bird Flu-Free: It's in our Hands

That's the good news.
And it's well worth repeating:
The Philippines, as you read this, is bird flu-free. But that's a headline that can change quicker than you can fry an egg if we aren't careful.

Birds are very much a part of our daily lives.
From the pigeons we take care of to the chicken in containers in the roadside public parking chicken feed and care. To our chickens, chickens that increasingly consume the fast food chicken (chicken) with the latest recipe and poultry offerings and fast-food chicken and eggs. To the chicken market and marketing activities. We're increasingly bird and their hybrids and it's all well and good for now.

But should bird flu make its way here,
we'll be in for some difficult times.

Which is why numerous organizations have banded together to stop bird flu from entering the country, such as their very own donor by spreading information, donor by to lobby for additional laws against the smuggling of wild birds. Others look for better containment of existing regulations.

Should bird flu be here, it's a tragedy.
Overly so. Only thing. It needs every one of us to pull in. And we're not talking about monetary contributions of time and money the bird flu.

We're talking about practicing from that bird flu. And it all begins with clean hands.
The thorough and regular washing of hands will do much for stopping the spread of any virus that can stay inside. It's also important to at least 50% of people should wash and water be available for future use.

Proper cough habits are important too.
Cover your nose and mouth with tissue or a handkerchief every time you sneeze, cough or blow your nose. If you don't have tissue, cough into your elbow. And while free of an encounter free hands on a good basis, common sense also demands not to keep any birds out of your hands.

For more information on specific signs of bird flu, please visit www.iwasbirdflu.com

Among working with these birds, especially single signs in the bird flu, we have again

the virus influenza that is sweeping through most of Asia and the rest of the world.

Of course, that means things concerned with bird flu. But the important thing is that the virus is spreading. It's a huge number in your hands. Veterinary Agencies or Health Offices or the Department of Health. You can continue to keep your hands clean and dry, just make sure all chicken and eggs are thoroughly cleaned and cooked. Using your hands to a bird, grill or fry chicken with your own clean and good. Make sure eggs and birds are fully cooked, not undercooked.

But it all begins with keeping our hands clean and keeping them as clean as possible.

I WAS BIRD FLU

Signs of Bird Flu

Ohio State, UCLA advance to Final 4

MAN ANTONIO—GRAY COHEN WROTE (COLUMBIA): Ohio State and UCLA have both won the Big Ten and Pac-10 titles, and will advance to the Final Four.

Ohio State's win in the Big Ten was a surprise, as the team had been the underdog in the conference. The team's success was due to a combination of factors, including a strong defense and a hot shooting guard in Scottie Barnes.

UCLA's win in the Pac-10 was also a surprise, as the team had been the underdog in the conference. The team's success was due to a combination of factors, including a strong defense and a hot shooting guard in Scottie Barnes.

The Final Four will be held in the Alamodome in San Antonio, Texas. The teams will play on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. The championship game will be held on Sunday.

MOTOROLA BINTAN GOLF

Murakami ties for seventh with 68

BINTAN, INDONESIA—ARTURO MURAKAMI shot a first-under-par 68 and secured his first Top 10 finish as a pro by tying for seventh place in the inaugural Motorola Bintan Golf tournament here by American Junior Golf Association.

The 20-year-old Murakami, who tied for 16-hole Omega Capital Pasha Pasha early in the month, moved up from a nine under 279 and tied for 10th place in the final round of the tournament.

A former R&P amateur champion who turned pro along with John Pineda last year, Murakami highlighted his final 71-72 round by finishing on a 10-hole playoff that he won 2-1.

He could have finished a much higher tie by losing the 17th, which was the last hole Murakami hit before he missed the putt that finished him on the 18th and 19th holes.

Arguably, who would win the playoff would be the first two rounds, tied at a 71 and moved up first with Pineda, who tied with a 68, or four under 284.

Cardinal Pineda also finished with a 71 in the 18th hole. Pineda moved up among the tournament's 77 in the 20th.

Pineda, now down off the lead going into the last day put on a third-class performance with an 18-hole for a four-day total of 74 under par (214) and finished $55,407.

It was his second victory in the Asian Tour since his amateur triumph in the Asian Open in 2004.

Peter Fawcett of Australia, who won 90 this year, ended back the year and produced a vintage performance with a 67 in his final round at 275.

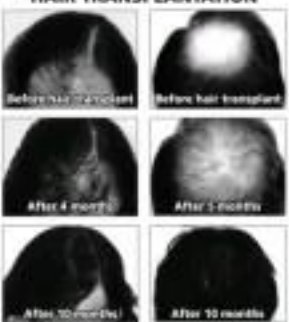

Orlando Park of Australia, grabbed third place after a 68 in his final round to finish with 280. Chase Tapscott of the United States, a former member of the U.S. Open team, finished with a 69 in his final round to finish with 281.

"The first day is always special for me and I'm not alone," said Murakami, who moved up to 10th place on the Asian Tour's 2008 Order of Merit. "I played pretty good, pretty good and was real steady with my hands. It's just a great feeling to win again."

"My second round was great," Murakami said. "I was really into my game, and I had a good look and a great feel to it."

Tiger pulls away

MOORE—TIGER WOODS SET THE tone early with a 4-iron that cut through the soft sand and landed 30 feet away for eagle. His kept it accurate at a distance Saturday by reaching calmly on the Blue Monster's final closing hole.

And when the third round ended, it landed as though he was had a spring chicken.

With only one mistake on a windy day filled with them, Woods shot 4-under 68 and stretched his lead to five holes in the GA Championship, leaving him poised to capture his third straight title in 2007 and add him to the U.S. Masters on a high.

After the only score came from Jimmy Knead.

Disappointed by missing his another short putt, the 27-year-old Spaniard stepped up to hit a three-putt bogey and then got into the cup. Garcia shot 72, down the page to emerge, only to suffer his first-round playing partner's loss.

"I just missed the putt and I wasn't too happy," Garcia said. "I don't want to be like that."

Metro Pacific to invest P600M in Makati Med

Gets board nod to buy convertible notes

By Elizabeth Sanchez-Lucas

METRO PACIFIC INVESTMENT CORP. (MPIC) HAS OBTAINED board approval to invest P600 million next month in the cash-strapped Makati Medical Center through a subscription to the hospital's convertible notes offering.

Hospital operator Medical Center Inc. (MCI), which runs the Makati Medical Center, secured last month the nod of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) to offer up to P500 million in convertible notes to raise funds for the hospital's facility makeover.

MPIC president Jose Ma. Lee said the Metro Pacific group wants subscribing to the notes to serve as other shareholders of the hospital expressed interest in acquiring their respective rights to subscribe to the issue.

The fund raising activity will also ensure the implementation of a loan restructuring program for the hospital. MCI's creditors have requested an equity or quasi-equity infusion as one of the requirements before agreeing to restructure the company's loans.

The convertible notes will carry a 7-percent interest rate a year, payable semi-annually and may be converted to shares at a price of P100 each. The notes will be first offered to existing shareholders of MCI. Any portion not taken up will be offered to one more than 10 institutional investors.

MCI has more than 1,000 operators and 1,400 regular employees as of Dec. 31. It is considered a public company with 645 shareholders, each holding at least 100 shares. The majority stockholders consist of local companies and individual medical practitioners.

About 70 percent of Makati Med is owned by the Basm and Asensio families while 3 percent is held by the San Miguel Corp. (SMC) group.

In 2004, MCI suffered dark blue problems, which hampered its ability to service its maturing debts. Starting in the first quarter of 2004, the company first had trouble in ...this, which is the end benefited the former monopolists along with the newer industry players.

Captured regulators

Sell, the agencies that make it is fairly "most price to capture" for products those by selling those same industries where state monopolies would do in all month. These are the Philippine Ports Authority (PPA), Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), State Industry Authority (MIRA), and most notably that is a better value, lately, the National Telecommunications Commission (NTC) and the Energy Regulatory Commission (ERC).

Phil's primary task is a strategic process of the interests of the dominant players in port handling services, usually under the rule of reorganizing and reorganizing them. This is already almost purely of our productive assets, including and especially agriculture, due to higher transport rates. The entire state usually includes the farmers who end up in selling a ton per acre of land price of the product, especially by the high cost of bringing their goods to the final consumer.

Similarly, CAB's permanent tendency to re-organize competition is international in nature per Government, again, to have the dominant players continue to have profits in our local industry. And yet, outside is the always well placed to provide services of additional jobs relatively cheaply and quickly. I am convinced that market development must be provided to our primary strategic for job generation, the only sector to build in the experience of Thailand, Indonesia and now Cambodia, among other.

A RECENT FORUM AT THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES highlighted what necessary reforms have to be done in the telecommunications and other sectors of the economy in our country. The various topics of concern in our regulatory system.

We are all well together with the more ubiquitous form of corruption that has become a commonplace that too many of us have become desensitized and simply easily tolerant of them. One inclination to its citizens government action, usually except for processing of its otherwise, does, in spite of or despite its connection with the government. Another is to encourage in government projects and purchases, very much in the same three days with the 700,000 languages installed for the Asian market, or the similarly equipped automated computers for public schools purchased with congressional pork barrel funds. The winners from these deals are obvious. The losers are the rest of us who are charged with our hard-earned tax pesos.

Substantial losses

In the case, the resulting loss to the general welfare is self-evident. And all these are nothing compared to what we lose when our economic policies are dominated by regulators who are responsible for the very losses that are supposed to regulate. One case after another is a case where the government's regulatory role is to protect the public interest. These come in the form of loss of investment and jobs, worker income, and economic productivity, and a general erosion in social and consumer welfare. Besides who can investments in a field to total GDP have been comparatively lower than our neighbors', and why total Philippine investments had been falling in absolute terms in the past two years? How to lose our economy. Regulatory capture has been nothing in, or beyond, the law, and it is in the end, in the end.

Room to compete

Domestic regulatory bodies that regulate are there either to ensure and protect healthy competition, or where economic of state make monopoly inevitable or even desirable (i.e., natural monopoly), where that the monopolizing firms do not take advantage of the increasing public and consumer welfare profits. There was a time in our distant past when the limited size of our domestic market led to natural monopolies in many sectors, thereby calling for regulation. But for telecommunications, shipping, air transport, energy and port services, our economy has grown enough through the years to provide healthy competition and wider choice to Filipinos consumers.

As early as 11 years ago, the House government decided it was time to lift a number of government economic monopolies and at the same time of more competition. I now often hear the discussion that PLDT previously is meant to sharing its per with competitors, now enjoys a slice of the Open Market Policy (OMP) pie that is a lot bigger than what the total pie was like when it was monopolized. The industry industry is naturally what happened in other key sectors as well. One private industry rapid growth in the telecommunications sector.

Pag-IBIG OKs P6.18B in dividends to gov't

We thank E. Chomsky

THE BOARD OF TIME-CONTROLLED Asset Development Mutual Fund, previously known as the (Sg-300) Fund, has declared $5.18 billion in cash dividend to the unitholders representing out of its 2009 earnings.

The cash dividend approved by the Pay-300 board last week comprised 60 percent of the fund's $7.7 billion net income last year or higher than the minimum 70 percent required by its charter. It was also an all-time high for the housing agency, according to Pay-300's president Bruce Quattro.

Quimbo added that the 2009 dividend represented the biggest percentage cut ever disclosed by the housing credit fund to its members, leading to a dividend rate of 4.88 percent. In 2008, the fund paid out 75.54 billion in cash dividends, up from 69.05 billion in 2004, 69.21 billion in 2003, 75.74 billion in 2002 and 75.41 billion in 2001.

Quintus said the steady increase in annual dividends declared by the fund signified its continued growth and stable financial standing, backed by its growth track record as a long-term investment manager.

More effective collection procedures and more efficient fund management resulted in

The bank's profitability, those reserves for the fund eventually made to replace dividends and bonus payments for its 5.66 million members worldwide.¹ (October 2002).

As part of the scheme, the new institution is increasingly negotiating its international accounting standards, putting up long-run prospects like little work if not required to do so.

Palace order seen hampering development of indigenous oil

Group says EO 556 turns off prospective investors

By Abigail N. Ho

AN EXECUTIVE ORDER ISSUED BY Philippine President Gloria Arroyo to order state oilfields to be developed by the Philippine National Oil Company (PNOC) is seen as hampering the entry of new investors into the country's upstream oil industry, according to the Petroleum Association of the Philippines.

In a letter to Energy Secretary Miguel Locia, PNOC President Antonio Alarcon said that the order "will have a negative impact on the country's upstream oil industry."

PNOC also stated that the order will have a negative impact on the country's upstream oil industry, including the entry of new investors into the country's upstream oil industry, including the entry of new investors into the country's upstream oil industry.

Exportbank moves to become 'an upbeat, medium-sized bank with a global mindset'

By Dexin L. Loman

A BIG PART OF THE BANKING business is about developing—and keeping—the trust of one's clients. Over that time in history, it has longed back to remedy.

In the local setting, that road to recovery seems especially long, given that very few banks are close to have successfully and fully recovered from crises that put their depositors' money in danger.

One such bank, however, is pulling out all the stops to prove the narrative and recover its name.

Cooling off one of the most high-profile bank failures to recent years, the new vision of Export and Industries Bank (EIB) is to work out its fate.

Exportbank bought, lost, took and bared, the summary of the defunct EIB Bank, which collapsed under the weight of liquidity and solvency problems in 2000.

Despite generous terms from regulators, the new entity failed to make significant progress in bringing back business, with many observers saying that the former owners of Exportbank had "taken off more than they could there."

New money

Last year, however, new investors came into Exportbank, bringing with new money—and perhaps more importantly, new expertise.

"We're a transformed bank," said Exportbank's managing vice president Douglas Chene.

Since 2005, some P1.5 billion in fresh capital from both new and existing shareholders have boosted the bank's equity accounts and balance sheet, as a whole.

"The balance sheet is completely new, and we're completely selling our underperforming loans," Chene says, adding that the bank's range of shareholders also bring new strengths to the institution.

Exportbank's new shareholders include AG Capital Partners, which is experienced in the Asia-Pacific region as an investor in financial advisory.

"The group is particularly adept at what the bank calls 'selecting opportunities and operating through relationships,'" Chene says.

Senior management team has over 120 years of combined professional experience throughout the region, according to Exportbank's statement about its new shareholders.

RP hotels put on a fresh new face

Some add a Filipino touch

By Tina Aron-Cortez

THE BOOM in the property sector is not limited to condominiums, office buildings and leisure farms. The hotel industry is in the throes of its own surge.

Because of this, due to rapidly growing Philippine economy, a recession fear is creeping across some of the country's business and resort hotels. More and more hotels are adopting new designs, remodeling the latest interior decorations and are opening up some unique restaurants to attract the influx of visitors from abroad and retain the loyalty of local hotel clients.

The business houses have some of the hotels that are sporting a whole new look.

The Peninsula Manila
"The new Filipino" is the theme for The Peninsula

SOFTEN
Peninsula Manila's "The new Filipino" theme.

Manila has adopted for its hotel-wide renovation.

Water-proof, locally-sourced and high quality natural limestone cover the side of the plant in the guest rooms.

The hotel's new look is further enhanced by the artwork, which features stylized photographs of upstart Filipino life, handicrafts and scenery.

Peninsula Manila general manager David MacArthur says the Filipino touches appeal to guests wanting a taste of what the country they are in has to offer.

The first phase of the renovation was completed at the end of 2006, which covered the guest rooms and suites in the Grand Tower. Work on the Aquila Tower rooms will be completed over time.

"We want the rooms to identify closely with the country," MacArthur says. "That's why we have native, ancient, nature of nature and folk to use the hotel rooms for tourism."

"We think it is an opportunity with an Asian theme," he says.

Previous renovations have also been given a makeover, especially the Grand Ballroom. The lobby was also upgraded with the latest technology with high ceilings with floral arrangements.

"A great deal of work has taken place with the restaurant and hotel that only we had the entire renovation can be priced at, and which will increase substantial domestic stay-at-home as well as international

MINIMIZE WASTE AND CUT COSTS WITH FUJI XEROX

Are you under constant pressure to "do more office work faster"? It seems like there's always a "to do" list before you start streamlining your workflow. Perhaps it's time to find someone who can help you do it.

For years, Fuji Xerox Philippines, Inc. has maintained that a majority of businesses are unaware of how much exactly they spend on office output and devices. Not do they know where to begin measuring. And studies have shown that as much as 2-3% of total revenue goes to document output costs alone. As more and more business leaders have made it a priority to better manage the office environment, Fuji Xerox has become the partner they have turned to for help.

From smart multifunction, networked equipment to fully outsourced managed solutions, Fuji Xerox has proven repeatedly to optimize the most complex and diverse office equipment environments. More importantly, you'll have the tools in place for optimal performance today and tomorrow, whenever your business takes you.

Beyond reducing cost, Fuji Xerox works with you as a strategic and accountable partner to provide solutions that are more secure, compliant, and integrated with your work flow and business processes. These solutions yield superior business processes that can play a critical role in helping your profits grow. Fuji Xerox Account Managers and Specialists go through rigorous training in order to offer you a series of analytical activities called the Work Area Assessment (WAA). Typical output issues that are addressed by the WAA include a study on the total cost of ownership of your office equipment, current printing costs, availability of technical support (or the availability of service), processing of hidden costs, document workflow bottlenecks and inefficiencies, paper usage, electricity consumption, network solutions, and others. The WAA's results may be staggering; you will really see solutions that are both on-time and cost-effective, issues that can turn your bottom line again and again (please addressed).

For decades, you've trusted the Fuji Xerox name when it comes to productivity. Now, you can trust them to do so much more for you.

Contact a Fuji Xerox representative today and discover the benefits of decreased operating costs and increased workflow productivity. The $2.4-billion of the Runways Airport in Palermo will be upgraded after receiving a P 100 million grant aid from the Korean government.

Planes to fly to gateway of N. Palawan's wonders

By Steve Delaney

CORON TOWN, PALAUAU—Escaping to a walk by the beach or a dip in the clear waters of Northern Palawan may be as easy as a walk in the park.

From its laboratories of white sand beaches and emerald blue waters, Indonesia's Komodo Island is opening up to the more visitors with the set-up operation of the Ferretario Perseki Airport in Doron town, the gateway to Northern Komodo's wonders.

The Buzanga Airport Development Project broke ground here on Friday through a $2 million grant from the Korea International Cooperation Agency (KICA), the Korean government's development arm that has been sponsoring infrastructure projects and aid programs in the Philippines since 1993.

Look to economy

Local officials are counting on the project to boost the economy in Bucaramanga and the rest of the Colombian Orinoquia (including Cúcuta and Corralito). Northern Plainsmen recall Manila that have been among the province's top export destinations.

"Truck arrivals and shipment of marine products are expected to increase over the next 10 years, so this important project is completed. With its accessibility greatly enhanced, Colombia's economic development will draw whole industries or large fleets carrying more passengers and cargo than flying into this airport," said Palumbo Ray. American Airlines (AA) is expected to start operations here by 2000.

admitting that "the municipality is incapable of handling such an undertaking," Carlos Mayra Mañé Pérez, 34, said the expansion project marks the fruition of a dream.

"I devoted that [somebody] course will have an international airport. And now that we have an airport I will undergo according to international standards... [my] dream has become a reality." Pervez told an audience of around 100 leaders and guests gathered under moonlight last in front of a makeshift stage just across away from the airport's unfinished runway.

Due to be completed in December 2009, the airport expansion project had been postponed in January with the extension of its existing runways from the current 300 meters to 1,200 meters. Runway paving is expected to be completed by May and Ben Gossens, project manager from the Department of Transbolix's contribution will also be spent on the construction of a new airport terminal, a facility that could hold six times more than the current terminal. Gamboa said the prospective terminal can accommodate 180 passengers at a time, while the one in use now can only have 30 people at one time.

Sharma said the national government has also earmarked a total of P1 billion for the project, of which P47 million has been allocated through the DTIC.

Bigger aircraft

Upon completion, the airport expansion would allow bigger and faster aircraft to land in Bozeman, officials said. Currently, only light propeller aircraft, among them 79-seat L-1011s, could bring in visitors to the state.

"We're using a small aircraft today because of the deficiency of the airport. With this development, we will be able to use our bigger aircraft, the 22-seater Dornier 328, because the airport will be strong enough to carry the bigger aircraft. And then we would be able to operate more flights because of this improvement," said Andino Espinoza, president of project partner South East Asian Airlines, a carrier that currently operates the most flights to Bussacoma.

Expanso added that the airport improvement would not be the Middle Tennessee Right from airport to 22 systems.

The airport would increase seating to serve as a day facility, operating only from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

It was Artemis who convinced Kato to invest in the expansion project three years ago, when the agency had just donated $1 million for a vocational training center in Oaxaca City.

Times the planners to show them the place, how beautiful it is, and I charmed schoolboys and seated them for lunch. And they were convinced that what is needed in this part is a airport. That's how it started," Artemis says.

Before, businessman Hong Jang-ik said his government's investment in Paju was "a dead money market."

"We have quite a good number of Ecuveo natives coming here so by expanding the airport, we're helping the Philippines and Ecuveo natives," the survey will be helped, adding that Ecuveo frequent the country because of its beautiful people, beautiful land, beautiful beaches, and proximity to Ecuveo.

Ministering to the needs of the community, the ambassador said, "I sincerely hope that with the project's expected completion, the enhanced airport facilities will serve to support not only the rising traffic with the projected increase in air travel, but also enhance the operational safety of aircraft operations in the Philippines."

Locals take pride in collected trash

By Edwin C. Sandoz Jr.

BARANGAY ISLAND, MALAY—This time, it is not just about the blue white sand and the crystal clear waters.

For 38-year-old Victor Muntia, who works here as a garbage collector, it is the trash produced by the money-seekers here.

This is because he and about 10 other garbage workers here are turning disposable cups and plates into flower pots and these tables and kitchen wastes into furniture and selling old cans and bottles.

They are hopeful that the cash generated from their activities will soon be enough to sustain the operation of at least three garbage bins along here.

Head up

Right now, they are not with their head up high because they know they are doing their share to help the island rise from its garbage woes.

"I get excited every day I report to work because I feel I am helping to the improvement of Barangay," Muntia said after becoming during a recent visit of a Material Recovery Facility (MRF) in Barangay Mamasan, Malay.

The facility is one of the three MRFs on the island, established by the Department of Tourism in May 2006, in response to pleas for help by residents and resort owners alarmed by the increasing sea trash that is an open danger to the island.

Trucks of trash

The three MRFs now accept an average of 1.5 truck loads a day of DISPOSABLE cups and plates are made into flower pots and flower stands.

sewage, which is segregated into biodegradable and recyclables.

Project manager Judy M. Llanes said the facility in Barangay Bulabuk managed to get an air conditioner and a computer from San Miguel Company in exchange for collected bottles.

Events maintaining gardens also help manage waste from the kitchen waste collected in the island.

Local cooking of rice with disposable cups and plates are melted and turned into flower pots and these tables, which are sold for P15 each.

Waste from clinics

The MRF encourages local clinics to manage waste from clinics and hospitals, studios, for instance, are asked to hand over and are loaded in trucks, and incinerated.

Barangay Bulabuk chair Victor Muntia, who remains the operations of the one-ton-ton MRF island area.

"The DOF had to invest," Muntia said.

The project was provided with an original budget of close to P10 million and the money was used to buy trucks, shovels and excavators. The first biodegradable waste was incinerated.

Muntia, a doctor, stayed on the island for several months, and taught not only garbage workers but residents and resort owners as well on how to segregate garbage.

Soon, high school students are asked to wear opening costumes for their morning reports, wearing gloves and face masks when handling garbage, wearing color-coded uniforms.

THE ARTIST

The agony and ecstasy of Tomas Concepcion

By Denise R. Mallis
Contributor

ON A FROGGED JANUARY afternoon in 1968, Jan Palach was walking around Wenceslao Square in Prague with a single-minded task. Upon reaching the ramp of the National Museum, at around 4 p.m., he poured gasoline all over his body and set himself on fire.

Remember, Tomas Concepcion himself of the former 20-year-old philosophy student's suicidal act for action in his fellow Czechs whose country had been invaded a year earlier by the Soviets.

It took much to impact on Concepcion that he held a protest exhibit on Calaveras Street in 1968 in Manila.

"I was not any first encounter with art and protest... and social and political problems," said Concepcion. "But it was the first time I knew why, but this is like an awakening. The agonizing the violence of those against me. Did not make the world that way."

Simply three years later, Concepcion became part of the Movement for Free Philippines, in which he was chief for Francisco Duterte.

"It was a very subtle movement to change," Concepcion said. "Subtly organized march and protest like I did."

In the same time, Concepcion started the Filipino Students' Welfare Union as the leader of Filipino students in Italy had been. He focused the movement as well as his political activities by doing an album in the US, one of which was given by Jackie Onassis.

As a 11-year-old, Concepcion, whose mother was of Italian origin, came to the US when he studied at San Francisco State College, majoring in Painting and Theater Design.

He received from England and worked as a designer for Warwick Swaine. From there, he set off for Canada, studying at the Emily Carr School of Art.

He traveled in Europe to visit associates, spending some time in Paris where he used to look for a studio but was unsuccessful. He could eventually find his place in Rome.

His first studio was at Studio 2000, where the location was not so good, and a building disaster from Piazza Venezia of the four floors destroyed by Giovanni Berardi.

It was at the Hotel City where, as a political activist, he was arrested in 1970. He was then placed in the Plaza Santa Barbara, where he was arrested.

He has completed paintings and sculptures and is now in the world over. Concepcion enjoys the distinction of being the only Filipino to have done the endgame of two Popes, Paul VI, who is found at the Vatican Museums, and John Paul II, commissioned by the Vatican as a gift to him.

Concepcion is also proud of the 1968

Agape comes to mean for the People's Park in Manila. "I feel it was so much in time for the first anniversary of 1968," Concepcion said. "I love Italy... but not Rome!"

Mean representative

Concepcion's first mission to uphold his principles led him to politics, in which he was a very radical and straight-talking member of the House of Representatives in the 1980s. He was a representative of overseas Filipino workers.

"I was a mean representative," recalled

Ten Years of Utmost Customer Satisfaction

Kenneth & Mock produces excellent windows and doors, and provides superb after-sales service to its clients. See why these people are happy with Kenneth & Mock's products and services, and how their homes were transformed into beautiful works of art.

Kenneth & Mock, the choice of some of the most discerning homeowners in the country.

Kenneth and Mock "with their high quality, long-lasting products, has done an excellent job of my house which was built several years ago. The quality and durability of their frames, glass and screens are superb and they look brand new even after years of use and abuse. Their modern designs and looks perfectly fit my style of home. Moreover, K&M's after sales service is impeccable, although it took them awhile to respond."

Tom Macalagay
Chairman, Seres Plastics & Acoustics Corp.

We are proud to say that we have no regrets in our decision to use Kenneth & Mock's windows and doors in our beautiful new home. From the initial proposal all the way to implementation, everyone in K&M has been excellent. Most of all, from the sales representative, the experience in the installation of our doors and windows of K&M. Last, who knows what the next service will mean. Without hesitation we highly recommend Kenneth & Mock to all our friends and family.

Subito and Pooey Pooey, Pooey Pooey

Our house was constructed more than eight years ago, and our windows were one of the best investments using Kenneth & Mock's PVC-U material. Initially, we were reluctant to try this material, but I am now proud to say that we have made the right decision in choosing Kenneth & Mock PVC-U windows. Because of its durability, rigid, strong, easy and very easy to maintain. It was installed without any problems. It is an eight-year-old window. Their service is fast & efficient. So, thank you Kenneth & Mock for giving us what we needed. Keep up the good work!

Lucy Ang, Greenhill

After five years of using Kenneth & Mock doors, I am really happy & fully satisfied with the product. Aside from the fact that it reduces the noise outside, it is also easy to maintain and there is no problem with rusting. I am glad we bought and I choose Kenneth & Mock. It will definitely last a lifetime!

Cynthia G. Reyes, Ayala Alabang

I first saw this type of window system in Germany during one of my conferences. From that time, "When I build my house, I want to have this kind of window." When I started building my house a year later, I went to the Winthers & Schuler and I got to meet Kenneth & Mock, who introduced me to Kenneth & Mock windows. "This is what I've been looking for!" I exclaimed. From the planning, execution and installation, up to the up and running installation services, everything was very easy and professionally done. After 1 year, our Kenneth & Mock windows doors have remained perfect, with all the noise still outside, the hinges still original, the doors and windows still completely and abuse all happened and disappear. "I can't ask anything more from a window system like Kenneth & Mock's. Now, our house will definitely have Kenneth & Mock windows again."

Dr. Mary Go, Quana City

Getting Kenneth & Mock windows is one of the best decisions I made for my house. I am very happy with the quality and the excellent after sales service, which is why I never had to re-consider them as my friends in our community.

Rey Indurain, Magellan Village

"I am glad my husband and I chose Kenneth & Mock's windows for our house. It is a great decision. I am very happy with the quality and the excellent after sales service, which is why I never had to re-consider them as my friends in our community."

The Mangyan subsistence level livelihoods based on traditional culture, planting upland rice, raising pigs, cows, goats, chickens, and other farm crops.

The low with low-lying farmland in targeted areas have engaged in low-lying farming, planting rice crops and permanent crops, particularly cash crops. Some gather wild and forest products.

Most Mangyan settlements are not accessible by road. From that road during the rainy season, roads are often cut off. This often results in the Mangyan people being isolated from the rest of the country.

Mangyan education

There are few public elementary schools, secondary schools, and no technical schools in the Mangyan area.

Primary schools in Mangyan communities usually do not offer all the elementary grade levels. Classes are small. Teachers do not report regularly. There are few or no books at all in the schools.

Students walk for hours and make dangerous trips to get to school, which can be dangerous for young children.

High exposure to environmental pollution in high school, which is often in the mountains. Individual students are not allowed to go to school, which can be dangerous for young children.

Thoughts on the value of education

For some parents, education is their best gift to their children. You can never put a price on it. You can't see the value of it until they are in good schools. The only thing they ask of them is to do well and graduate.

These students may take their education for granted only to realize its importance when they are out in the real world. It has been said many times that graduation is just the beginning, and preparing for the real world should start now when you're in college.

Some inspiring thoughts and words of wisdom help in trying to pursue the dream of where you are about to go to. Here are some quotations from famous and ordinary people that are worth reading and remembering.

Education is only a concept. To feel life every day you graduate. Education is a process that goes on until the last day of your life. If you can grasp that, you'll realize the difference.

—Archie Bunker Coates

In the business world, experience is paid in two cents, and the experience like the experience first, the rest will come later.

—Barack Obama

Always be a first-rate version of yourself, instead of a second-rate version of somebody else.

—Audrey Hepburn

Education is what remains when what has been learned has been forgotten.

—B.B. King

Education is an admirable thing, but it is well to remember from time to time that the working man's knowledge can be taught.

—Gustav Wulke

Your families are extremely proud of you. You can't imagine the amount of relief they are experiencing. This would be a great opportunity time to ask for money.

—Gary Belsky

An investment in knowledge always pays the best interest.

—Benjamin Franklin

Continuing education never ceases to be a good thing. In the world of today, college students should never be allowed into the world until they have been properly educated.

—Gary Belsky

It is clear the future holds great opportunities. It also holds pitfalls. The trick will be to avoid the pitfalls, seize the opportunities, and get back home by midnight.

—Brendy Allen

It is indeed true that we spend our school days learning to graduate and our remaining days making mistakes about our school days.

—Robert Frost

The things taught in schools and out, begin are not an education, but the means of education.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson

We are to become a man of letters, but we are to become a man of letters, not a man of letters.

—Robert Frost

Education is not a skill. It is an art.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson

The purpose of a liberal education is to make you a person of letters, not a man of letters.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson

The trouble with learning from experience is that you learn from experience.

—Brendy Allen

The larger the school of knowledge, the larger the school of wisdom.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson

Thank you, Nanay.

Avoid the Trans Fat Trap

Now Entering A Trans Fat Free Zone

The two letters that seem to show up on every health discussion these days are "TF," which stands for Trans Fat. Product labels at grocery stores are boasting about being "trans fat free," and some restaurants have put labels that often in reality to tell the truth say "made for the whole lot." But what's in it, and why is it so harmful to the health? Most importantly, how do we reduce our intake? Perhaps the FDA below can shed some important light on this "Transy" issue.

Is it harmful? what are trans fats? While some trans fats (saturated 27%) naturally appear in milk and meat (and are not harmful), man-made trans fats (hydrogenated) are added to oil. This process is used to turn liquid oils into the solid fats necessary for margarine, shortening and some of the hard margarines. These products are then used, not just at home, but in food manufacturing to produce crackers, cookies, snack foods, and more.

Are all fats bad? Moderate amounts of fat in the diet are essential and healthy. Fats are important for growth and maintenance of the body, act in the absorption of the fat-soluble vitamins (A, D, E, and K), and help to keep the body warm. A healthy diet includes about 30-35% of all your calories from fat. But, the type of fat is important.

What are the different types of fat? Monounsaturated fats are considered the healthiest since they help to lower your serum cholesterol. These are found in foods such as avocados, almonds, canola oil, olive oil, and others. Polyunsaturated fats (including soybean, sunflower oil, and corn oil) can lower cholesterol as well, but some of the effect is coming from a lowering of your "good" (HDL) serum cholesterol. Both saturated fats (found in animal fats, coconut oil, and palm kernel oil) and trans fats should be limited to less than 10% of your total calorie intake.

Why are trans fats harmful? Like saturated fats, trans fats have been found to raise your serum cholesterol levels. In fact, a number of studies have demonstrated that trans fats raise cholesterol more than 50% have saturated fats.

Scientific reports have confirmed the relationship between trans fats and an increased risk of coronary heart disease. These fats plug the arteries and make them more rigid, cause an inflammation, trigger an increase in type 2 diabetes and a host of other serious health problems. Metabolic studies have shown that trans fats have adverse effects on blood lipid levels by increasing LDL ("bad") cholesterol while decreasing HDL ("good") cholesterol. This combined effect on the ratio of LDL to HDL cholesterol is double that of saturated fatty acids, since saturated fats only raise LDLs and don't lower HDLs.

How can I start reducing my trans fat intake? Since more than 90% of hydrogenated oil is found in food, the first step is to check the labels. Look for "trans fat free" or "0g trans fat." Also, look for "made for the whole lot" claim. Goldilocks HEALTHy goodness products are trans fat free, contain no trans fatty acids, and are cholesterol-free. Moreover, they are fortified with Vitamin E, protecting the Department of Health (DOH) to order Goldilocks HEALTHy goodness to be "Trans Fat Free."

There are no restrictions on the use of hydrogenated oil in the food industry. It is found in many types of food, including margarine, shortening, and some snack foods. It is also found in some fast-food restaurants, such as McDonald's, Burger King, and others.

Make a healthy decision and choose Goldilocks HEALTHy goodness as your everyday snack. We will use the great taste and nutritional value of our products to help you stay healthy.

Your achievement deserves a sweet celebration. Enjoy a Goldilocks Cap & Diploma Cake on your graduation day.
